LOUISA, KENTUCKY.

THURSDAY, APRIL 14th, 1887.

Contributions to the Hendricks Fund amount to $21, 000.

In Rhode Island last week the Democrats elected their candidates for the State offices.

Secretary Lamar is to deliver the oration at the unvailing of the statue of Calhoun, at Charleston, S. C., on the 26th inst.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized the maintenance of existing rates by the railroads for a period of ninety days.

Capt. T. D. Marcum, of the Kentucky Democrat, has been appointed Inspector of Indian Agencies, at an annual salary of $3,000 and per diem expenses.

A Canadian fishery cruiser sighted an American fishing vessel within the three-mile limit last week, and immediately fired a blank shot at the "Yankee."

Judge James E. Smith, who was transferring this part of the State a few weeks ago for the Democratic nomination for State Auditor, died suddenly of heart disease Wednesday evening of last week, at his home near Flemingsburg.

In the Senate of the Pennsylvania Legislature a bill was introduced which provides that in addition to regular legal holidays, every Saturday between June 15 and September 15, after 10 o'clock in the forenoon, shall be observed as a legal holiday.

The long drought in Southeastern Texas continues unbroken, and in consequence there is much suffering. Cattle are perishing by hundreds, and the people are in many places without necessities. Several of the most fertile counties are almost barren.

A magnificent equestrian statue of Albert Sidney Johnson was unveiled at New Orleans last Wednesday. Ex-President Davis delivered a speech, and a letter from President Cleveland was read, expressing his regret at being unable to be present.

Rev. Steve Holcombe, who preached at the Chattahoochee Campmeeting a few years ago, was assaulted, as will be remembered, a few months ago by three ruffians. Two of the assailants were captured and a few days ago were fined $1,000 each and sentenced to five years confinement in jail.

Tom Marcum to Mass Squaws.
[Louisville Times.]

Thos. D. Marcum of Catletts-burg, Ky., who has been appointed Inspector of Indian Agencies at an annual salary of $2,000 and per diem expenses, was an applicant for the chief clerkship of the Interior Department. He was formerly Register of the Land Office at Frankfort. His appointment is a flank movement upon the part of Senator Beck on the mountains, and Dr. Standiford's attention is hereby directed to the fact. The Senator is here working day and night with a view of capturing anties in this coquetish manner before the dog days open. Capt.
Marcum will, if he goes about it rapidly, make an average Inspector, but if he monkeys with the squaws he will lose his scalp to a dead moral certainty. They scalp with a knife in the West, and not with a club.

Some of the opponents of Senator Harris seem to be amazed that he should be a candidate for the nomination for Governor when a few Democrats in his own county are opposed to him. If either of Senator Harris' opponents is opposed by no man in his own county, he is not fit to be Governor of this, or any other State. No man who possesses the firmness or independence of thought and character necessary to an honest and efficient discharge of the duties of Governor, can live in any county without incurring the dislike and opposition of some of his political brethren. It is only men who, in local and public affairs, if they had convictions and opinions do not think they were worth expressing and maintaining that have no enemies in their party or about their home, and such men in any department of the public service are worth nothing to his constituents or the State.—Kentucky Democrat.

Senator Harris is a successful farmer and trader, having followed these dual occupations all his days, and has accumulated a handsome estate. He never held office till elected State Senator two years ago, but has been a member of the Democratic State Committee and Chairman of the Madison County Democratic Committee for several years. He is a thorough gentleman, making friends fast and holding them, as his present attitude in the race for Governor demonstrates.
No common man could serve one session in the Senate and become at once an important factor in State politics. This fact is self-evident, and shows that Mr. Harris is above the average. He is a safe and conservative man in all his undertakings, and as a friend 'sticketh closer than a brother.' We do not know the people of Kentucky will make him Governor, but if they should they would have an honest and credible Executive.—Carlisle Mercury.

Judge Smith is Dead.

A Flemingsburg, Ky., special to the Courier-Journal of April 7th, says:—Yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock Judge James E. Smith, candidate for Auditor of State, died very suddenly at his home, four miles south of this city. He returned Monday night from a four-weeks' tour in the southwestern part of the State, and came in good health and fine spirits at his prospects of success; but while driving from here to his home that night he was attacked by a severe pain in the side, and was quite ill from what his physician pronounced a congestive attack. He soon rallied from that and was thought to be out of danger. At the time of his death he was sitting in his chair conversing with his family and some friends. When in the middle of a sentence, his head fell backward and, before he could be placed on his bed, the vital spark had gone out.

Judge Smith was a man highly esteemed by his large circle of friends and acquaintances, and his death was a shock to our community.

How to Boom a Town.

A good way for business men to start and keep up a boom for a town and its business is to extend friendly and liberal patronage to the local newspaper, and not allow it to suffer or starve for lack of support.
The newspaper works for the interest of every business man and the town and county whether it is properly supported or not; it is constantly helping to build up trade and to aid and encourage all enterprises, and it should be aided and encouraged in return—not in a stingy manner, but judiciously—to show a live-and-let-live disposition.
Everybody knows that the advertisements in a local paper is an index of the business, enterprise and thrill of the town; and almost every stranger who contemplates moving to a prosperous, wide-awake, energetic town seeks first the local newspaper, and often, if not always, judges the town by the patronage and the amount of advertising he finds. If the local paper displays that the business men are to stingy, or too indifferent, or too independent to advertise and keep up an increase trade, then it is at least doubtful whether such town will ever amount to much as a prosperous trading place.—Somerset Reporter.
